

Currently based as craniomaxillofacial surgeon at the Erasmus Medical Center Rotterdam, The Netherlands. I hold associate professorship positions at the Erasmus Medical Center, Rotterdam and at Great Ormond Street Hospital / UCL, London and work closely together with Boston's Children's Hospital, SickKids in Toronto, Karolinska University Hospital, Stockholm, Sweden and Seattle Children's Hospital. Main focus of my clinical work and research are Craniofacial deformities and trauma.

Goal has been, to bring together excellent craniofacial centers over the world. This has led to a strong group of highly specialized medical care givers, focusing on rare diseases, joining forces and knowledge, providing the basis for care, research and teaching. Have been international faculty since 2009 in training programs to teach both senior residents and specialist in different fields globally on trauma, orbital surgery, craniofacial malformations and orthognathic surgery.
