

Dr. Olga Husson is an epidemiologist employed as group leader at the Netherlands Cancer Institute and senior researcher at Erasmus Medical Center and the Institute of Cancer Research in London (UK). Her research focuses on health-related quality of life issues of adolescents and young adults (AYA) with cancer and patients with a rare cancer, specifically sarcoma. Dr. Husson holds several large grants in her research field and leads a research team of over 10 researchers. Dr. Husson is member of the Executive Committee of the EORTC Quality of Life Group.